WELCOME

Welcome to Forum 2015, the sixth Annual Forum to advance research for the health of our Military, Veterans and their families. For 6 years CIMVHR has been hosting this gathering and each year it grows to include more research, a larger delegation and better opportunities to network, connect, educate and learn. We are honoured to be co-hosting this year's Forum with Université Laval, and it has been our privilege to have Drs. Brad McFadyen and Luc Hébert work along side us on our planning team. Forum 2015 features over 180 oral and poster presentations that represent research being undertaken across the country and around the world. You are an esteemed delegation of over 550 researchers, clinicians, industry, government, students, military and retired Veterans and your presence is a vivid demonstration of your commitment to our troops, present and past, and their families. Thank you for your participation and for working to serve those who serve us.

Sincerely,

They didn't all join, but they all serve.

True Patriot Love is a foundation dedicated to supporting and honouring members of the Canadian military and their families. As we celebrate their patriotism, we also strive to inspire all Canadians to serve their country, whether in or out of uniform.

Over the past six years, True Patriot Love has raised over $18 million to fund military programs, charities, and causes that assist military families when and where it is needed most. Those organizations include Military Families Fund, Military Family Resource Centres of Canada, Camp Maple Leaf and Outward Bound Canada Veterans Program.

We are proud to continue our leadership in raising funds and awareness of Canada's military and their families. To learn more about how True Patriot Love supports military families, visit www.facebook.com/truepatriotlove.

Because even heroes need heroes.

The War Amps

With roots stretching back more than 95 years, The War Amps continues its proud legacy of amputees helping amputees.

Since the end of the First World War, The War Amps has been instrumental in obtaining many improvements to pension legislation and health-care benefits for veterans and their families.

As veterans health care is provided under a combination of federal and provincial authority, obtaining pension and health-care benefits can be a complex and bureaucratic process. The War Amps acts as a vital navigator for veterans.

Through agreements with the Department of National Defence and Veterans Affairs Canada, The War Amps is committed to assisting modern-day amputee military personnel and veterans.
